BIOGRAPHY

Nick commenced his loss adjusting career as a Trainee Loss Adjuster with McLaren Dick and Co in 1988 based in Hull UK. Over the years he has adjusted a wide range of commercial claims across many business sectors including but not limited to, food and drink, defense, retail, and pulp and paper both in the UK and abroad.

In 2000 Nick moved to an international broker and worked as a claims consultant / account executive where he managed a number of blue chip accounts and handled claims that emanated out of the Bunsfield explosion before returning to adjusting in 2009 in an international liaison role based in London. Nick currently works for McLarens out of the Bahamas office, utilizing his extensive insurance industry experience.
