BIOGRAPHY

Alexander began his career as a project coordinator for a multi-state commercial construction company, working there for three years. While there, Alexander oversaw the completion of numerous projects, while consistently receiving recognition from peers and superiors.

In 2002, Alexander transitioned to working as an insurance adjuster for a major insurance adjuster firm. Using his extensive background in construction, he began applying his skills when handling various sized residential and commercial losses. During his tenure with the adjusting firm he handled CAT events such as hurricanes and wind storms, as well as major fire claims. Alexander excelled in his role for many years before being promoted to an office manager in 2012, where he oversaw a team of adjusters.

He began working for McLarens in 2015 as a General Adjuster, bringing with him his extensive property and casualty knowledge, as well as his construction background. While with McLarens Alexander worked in the Texas freeze losses, handling many apartment buildings that had been affected.
