BIOGRAPHY

Chris's professional concentration has focused on determining, verifying and analyzing factual matters by examination of accounting, operating and financial records for use in insurance claims and economic losses. These claims have been sustained due to property damage and casualty losses, as well as other business disruptions and litigation matters.

Chris has investigated engagements including business interruption, contingent business interruption, extra expense, inventory, physical damage reconstruction projects, builder's risk, catastrophic loss services, and assistance in litigation cases. He has primarily engaged by insurance companies.

He has provided professional services in hundreds of engagements which have covered a broad base of companies including Fortune 500 companies through sole proprietorships. Damages have ranged in magnitude from under USD 5 K to more than USD 100 Million.
